

The 1927 Yahara

Published by The Senior Class
Stoughton High School
Stoughton :: Wisconsin

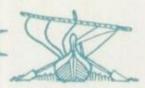

Dedication

As THE theme of our book carries out the Viking motif, so we wish to dedicate this twelfth volume of the Yahara to that proud old Viking spirit of dauntless courage, enterprise, vision, and persistence, which, embodied in the people of our community, has made possible every achievement of our city and school.

The paper industry is basic in Appleton's prosperity. It, and its dependent industries, give employment to nineteen hundred fifty people. This is more than half of the total number employed by all industries. These people need food and clothing. Retail establishments supply them and in so doing give employment to many more. Still more than half the factory and mill employees are working in paper mills, converting factories or industries dependent upon the paper business, and since these make possible many of our local establishments, it is not unreasonable to say that the paper industry provides the means of livelihood for half of Appleton's population.

Many of us do not realize this. We rarely give a second thought to the idea that possibly these institutions, of themselves, cannot last forever. They have been here so long that we just take them for granted. We seldom realize that the public has any responsibility toward them or that it can do much to keep them here.

CARRIE E. MORGAN

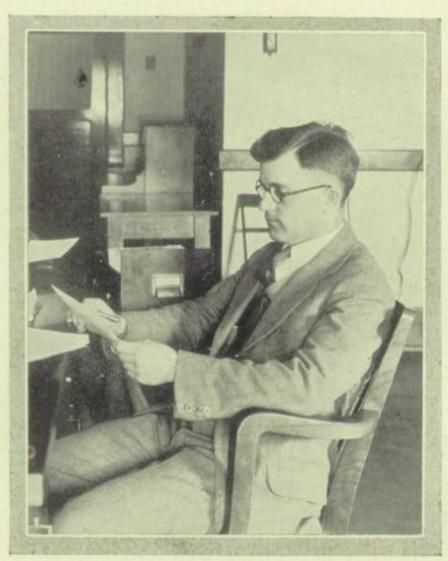

The old timer who can remember the first paper mill in Appleton, located on the site of the present Interlake property, will recall a small square frame building, where straw-board paper was manufactured. It has been a long step forward from the old frame building to the present cathedral-like structure, now occupying a portion of the old site. This change has not come in a day. Seventy years must have elapsed since the first paper mill was erected in Appleton, and the older inhabitants can trace the evolution from the old square frame building to the square, but higher, brick building erected in the third ward, to the long brick buildings in the middle of the water-power, back to the site of the Interlake, where a long, low brick building has had seven additions, culminating with the stately and handsome building, which has been such an innovation in paper-mill architecture.

We welcome the change, which will doubtless be an example for future mills to follow. The fine building, which I can look at as I write, is now illuminated and when the river is still and unfrozen its exact replica can be seen in the water and is a beautiful sight. In the gathering twilight it looms up like a cathedral indeed and is a real ornament to the banks of the good old Fox River.

HERBERT H. HELBLE

The 1930 edition of the Clarion has been dedicated to the paper industry. This industry gives our city and the entire Fox River Valley its outstanding characteristic. The prosperity and continued well-being of our community is directly dependent upon paper.

Dozens of our graduates and former students are devoting their lives in the offices and plants of paper mills up and down the Fox River Valley. Several of the graduates of the Class of 1930 will follow in their footsteps.

The high school student can well afford to give more than passing notice to our chief industry. First of all, it offers him a splendid opportunity for permanent employment. It is the chief contributor, in the form of taxes, towards the costs of his education. Its daily operations require the services of intelligent, high-class labor which, in turn, sets the intellectual, cultural, and living standards of Appleton. It is more than mere coincidence that Appleton and Appleton high school have no so-called colored problem, foreign problem, and class-caste problem.

We owe much to this basic industry whose continued prosperity means so much to all of us. In a recent survey made in our school, it was disappointing to learn that only one of two hundred fifty seniors intended to choose the paper mill industry as his life work. The Clarion by choosing the paper industry as its theme for 1930, hopes to call the attention of its readers to this situation, with the hope that both the student and our chief industry will be gainers thereby.

To Our Teachers

なり

To those who instruct, we should so like to say,
In the truest and heartiest sort of way:
Our gratitude grows day by day
For patience exerted when all hope seemed dead,
For knowledge imparted to strengthen the mind,
For thoughts and examples of every kind,
For all these and all, too, that we leave unsaid
But which will reap harvests in days far ahead;
In these distant days youth's ambition will be Achieved, so we hope, to at least some degree,
But always and ever we'll give thanks to you
With love and devotion you must know is true.

The Seniors' Thoughts

It is always the custom of the departing generation, in life as well as in school days, to leave behind it words of regret for advantages not taken, of gratification for favors rendered, and of encouragement and warning to the coming generation. Now, we seniors, about to leave our beloved school are making an attempt to prove that the wonders it has accomplished with our immature minds and characters are not unappreciated.

We try to avoid those hackneyed phrases, which are used so often and mean so little, and to honestly thank our Alma Mater for what it has accomplished. When in later years we realize that our whole life is based upon the foundation formed in high school, we will return in spirit to its portals with tears of gratitude for our fine start toward our ultimate goal.

We have not bettered the school—no, we have bettered ourselves for passing through it. And, alas! in so doing, we have not set a fine example for other classes to follow. But we humbly pray that future classes may, in following our footsteps, profit by our mishaps, climb high at the spot of our downfall, and finally surpass us to a higher degee of glory.

Senior Class History

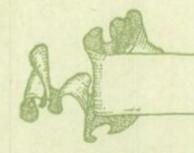

The class of 1930, inexperienced but ever ready to learn, entered Appleton High School with an enrollment of three hundred and three students. With the help of the teachers, upper classmen, and class officers: Bob Mortimer, president; John Lonsdorf, vice-president; Lila Locksmith, secretary; and Russell Wichmann, treasurer; we gradually became accustomed to our new surroundings. As sophomores our class was well represented in all types of athletics and other activities, including music, journalism, forensics, and various clubs. We sponsored several athletic games, and according to the usual tradition we presented a flag as a class gift to the school.

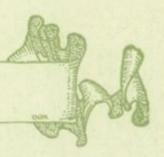

In our junior year under the leadership of William Foote, president; John Lonsdorf, vice-president; Lila Locksmith, secretary; and Russell Wichmann, treasurer; we gained more confidence in our ability, and the class in general showed greater initiative and cooperation. Many members achieved success in athletics, scholarship, journalism, and dramatics. The Junior Class Play, "The Youngest" presented at Lawrence Memorial Chapel on February 28, 1929 met with popular approval. Our class also sponsored "Courtesy Week" a movement to encourage the use of courtesy. In the spring of 1929 we entertained the graduating class at the Junior-Senior Frolic, which was one of the most successful social functions of the year. As our class gift we presented to the school a set of silverware upon whose handles was engraved A. H. S.

In our last year at Appleton High School we chose as our officers, William Foote, president; Betty Meyer, vice-president; Lila Locksmith, secretary; Russell Wichmann, treasurer. We started the activities of our senior year by giving a highly successful Get-Acquainted Party for the sophomores. This party was attended by approximately 400 students. Again many members of our class were prominent in athletics, dramatics, scholarship, and journalism. We were instrumental in bringing to Appleton High School, Dr. Sanford, vocational director, who gave advice to seniors regarding their life work. In addition we sold tickets for a program featuring Count Von Luckner, a German sea captain, who was brought to this city under the auspices of the Appleton Woman's Club. The graduates of 1930 also set aside one hundred and fifty dollars as an endowment for speaking contests which were to be dedicated to Ted Bolton and Carlton Roth who were drowned while duck hunting on Lake Winnebago. Both of them were graduates with the class of '28.

Before we graduate we wish to thank our principal, Mr. H. H. Helble, the faculty, and, above all, our sponsors. Especially do we wish to thank Miss Edna Bentson and Miss Erma Henry for their ever-ready and helpful assistance, for without them we would never have made the grade in Appleton High School.

We sincerely hope that the oncoming juniors and seniors will have a very noteworthy high school career and that they will profit by the mistakes we have made.

The Class of '31

In the brief career of any class in a three year senior high school, the junior year is the crucial period—the year that portrays the true character of the class. It is the year in which the standard of the class is either confirmed or completely destroyed.

The record which a class makes in its sophomore year is seldom taken as indicative of the character of the class, because the group is in a new environment.

In its junior year, however, the class has acclimated itself to its strange surroundings. Therefore, this period may be called the testing stage, and the class is braver according to the results it secures.

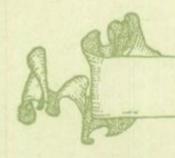

The class of '31 can look back with pride upon its junior year as one of achievement and success. In large and small projects it has met with marked progress.

The junior class party of 1929, which has been considered the best of its kind ever held at Appleton High School, is a splendid example of what the class as a whole has done. This party was the result of four weeks of constant work and effort. The faithfulness displayed by the committees deserves special commendation.

The class of '31 has gone through its entire junior year with this same spirit of willingness and cooperation, and it can indeed refer to its junior year without any apologies.

In behalf of the class of '31 I wish to extend our sincere thanks to members of the administration for their innumerable services throughout the year; to the Talisman and Clarion for their cooperation with our projects; and to our sponsors and their chairman, Miss Edith Brunschweiler, without whose help it would have been practically impossible to make this year what it has been.

Junior Class History

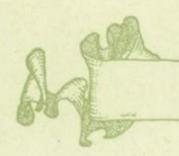

The past year has indeed been a gala year for the class of '31. After an auspicious start in its sophomore year, the class of '31 has "come through" in great style.

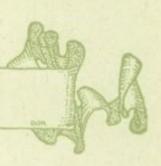

The sophomore year found many of the class engaged in athletics both varsity and intramural. Several intramural championships were carried off by the class of '31 in its sophomore year.

The class was also represented in other extra-curricular activities.

Although the sophomore year was extremely successful, the past junior year has been even more so.

Juniors have been prominent in extra-curricular activities this year and have participated in forensics, journalism, club activities, dramatics, and music. In athletics they have been on varsity teams as well as being engaged in intramural sports.

Back Row—Reuss, Tischer, Laird, Roemer, Heckert, Getschow, Brandt, Hassman, Smeltzer, Gerard, Rechner, Buesing, Schaefer, Hecker, Brooks, Jorgenson, Ressman, Sorenson, Woodworth, Tesch, Schommer, Cameron, Glasheen, Beach, Krause, Grishaber, Letter, Schultz.

The Junior Class Play, entitled "The Charm School", by Alice Duer Miller and Robert Milton, was a huge success in every way and manner.

The Junior Class Party held in November has been adjudged the best ever held in Appleton High School. The decorations were modernistic, and it took practically a month to complete them. The party, which was a costume party, displayed splendid cooperation on the part of the committees and the class as a whole.

In addition to these big undertakings, the class of '31 carried through several other projects to a successful conclusion. Among these were the Junior-Senior Frolic, pep session for the Oshkosh and Neenah basketball games, and leading the school in banking.

The class gift to the school was a one hundred and fifty dollar endowment to sponsor the Bolton-Roth Extempore Contest in memory of two splendid fellows, Carlton Roth and Ted Bolton, who were drowned in Lake Winnebago.

The Class of '32

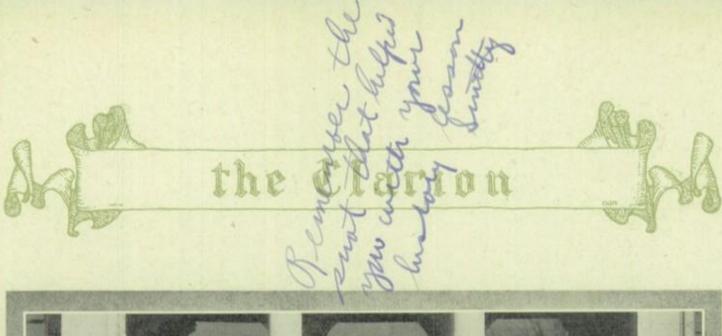

The class of '32 entered Appleton High School last fall about 400 strong, one of the largest enrollments that has been made for some time. At the very beginning of their course they took an active part in school affairs, although cooperation and class spirit were greatly lacking until the latter part of the year. The class has maintained a very high scholastic standing through the entire year. Many students were on the honor rolls, and they have won praise for special work that they have done.

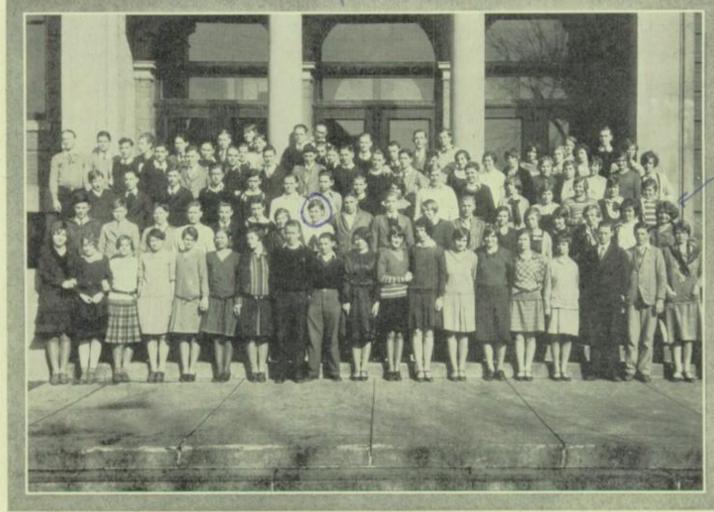

In athletics, three sophomores have won their letters in football and another in basketball, while many will serve as good material for teams in the next two years. The girls also have made a fine showing in athletics and accordingly they should receive praise.

The sophomores have stood out in extra-curricular activities. A great percentage were members of the Talisman and Clarion staffs, while others belonged to musical organizations and took part in forensics.

It is hoped that the sophomores will be the outstanding class for the next two years, not only in numbers but in deeds done and honors won.

Sophomore Class History

As the third sophomore class to enter A. H. S. from the junior high schools, the class of 1932 boasts of 376 students, the largest sophomore enrollment since the three-year high school was begun.

The activities of the class, while not so obvious perhaps as those of the upper classes, are nevertheless proof of the future ahead of this group of students.

The class party, which was held the first week in December, was one of the most successful parties of the school year.

The traditional sophomore flag was presented to the student body shortly after the beginning of the second semester.

Besides these activities in which the whole class participated, many sophomores won recognition in various all-school organizations and activities. The class of '32 was represented in both the declamatory and extemporaneous speech contests, and several members of the class were successful in debate.

Back Row-Griesbach, Getschow, Klein, Nabbefeld, Frank, Osinga, Ehlke, Bleick, McKenny, McGrath, Callahan, Stark, Pivonka, Boehme, Newton, Schomisch, Blazer, Sanders, Peterson, Groh, Gunther.

Fourth Row-O'Dell, Tillman, Coon, Brehmer, Wurl, Ingram, Goslin, Hartzheim, Kramer, West, DeBaufer, Osinga, Grosser, Scharman, Peotter, Slattery, Wolf, Krohn, Pegal, Brehmer, Kreick.

Second Row-Chopin, Moyle, Pusson, Mallet, Bauman, Abitz, Haberman, Hamman, Forster, Plank, Jennings, Joslin, Spiegelberg, Stecker, Schrick, Schneider, Stach, Everson, Lembke, Ecker.

On the football squad several sophomores proved themselves able to fight for their Alma Mater, and other sophomores showed their merit in basketball, hockey, and track. Still others worked on the publications staffs.

As another project, a group of students organized two boys' clubs, the Sophomore Triangle, and the A. H. S. Crusaders.

Finally, but by no means the last consideration, the class has ranked high scholastically, and altogether, things look bright for two more years of successful activity.

Class Government

The system of class government, instituted in 1925, continues to guide the classes of Appleton High School. By this plan each class has a cabinet, consisting of the officers of the class, the members of the student Council, and the faculty sponsors. The main work of the cabinet, the guiding influence of the class, is to appoint committees, to recommend projects to the students at the class meeting, and to carry out suggestions approved by the students—in general, to handle the problems arising in the respective classes. At the end of the six weeks, the home room representatives to the cabinets hand in the names of those students who are outstanding in school spirit and service to the school and those deficient in it.

Any student has the privilege through his representative, of issuing demands, approvals, and disapprovals to the student council, the pupils' own governing body, composed of representatives from all the home rooms. These demands are discussed in the Council and voted upon. If they receive a majority vote, they are put into operation in the school.

This system of class government has run very efficiently, effectively, and smoothly because it is representative of the whole class, thus allowing all the students to voice their opinions and take an active part in the government of the school.

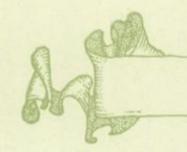

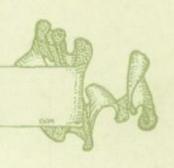

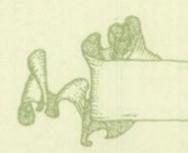

Class Sponsors

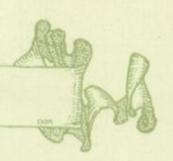

Undoubtedly you have often heard of people who do a great deal of beneficial work for others but never receive any credit for it. In Appleton High School there is one group of persons who have worked faithfully and uncomplainingly throughout the entire year. This particular group is the class sponsors who are appointed for the three classes at the beginning of the school term. This year there are seven for the seniors, seven for the juniors, and eleven for the sophomores. Their chief duty is to attend all class cabinet meetings and supervise their procedure. Besides they act on all committees for various social functions, programs, and class projects, and aid the classes in planning their work for the whole year. Unquestionably a class would not fare well without its sponsors, for it is they who devise new schemes and formulate novel plans for the welfare of the classes which they sponsor.

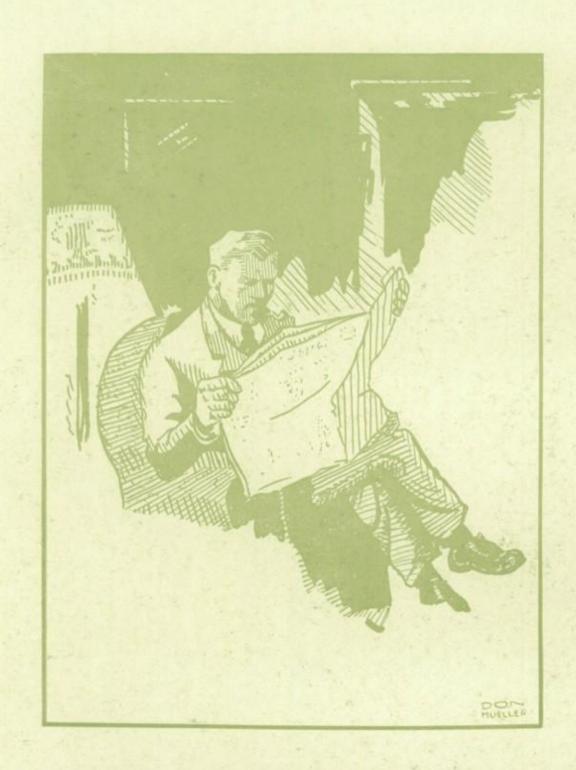

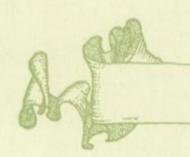

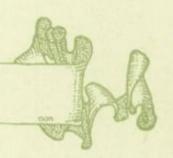

ACTIVITIES

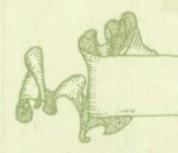

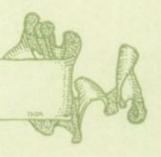

"BETTY" AND "ART"

Keepers of the Flag

Have you ever thought what that colored bit of cloth which floats above our beloved Alma Mater represents? It is the greatest symbol of Americanism, our flag. As we look up to it, our hearts are filled with justifiable pride and due reverence, and we are touched by that indescribable feeling called patriotism. Since the "Red, White, and Blue" of our flag is an emblem of courage, purity, and truth, naturally only the most prominent students are selected to take charge of it. Each year it is the privilege of the senior class to choose as flag raisers, a boy and girl who are outstanding in character, scholarship, cooperation, and leadership. No student can receive a more coveted honor than that of flag raiser, for it is symbolic of all the cherished traits which a high school student should be eager to develop. This year, particularly, we can truly say that the Senior Class has made a thoughtful choice, for Betty Meyer and "Art" Roemer have fulfilled the trust, which was placed in their hands, in a most admirable way, and we, the class of '30, can be justly proud of them.

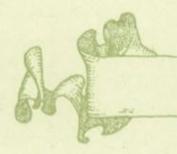

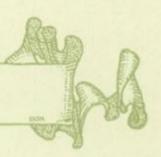

BETTY MEYER

The Craftsmanship Shield

The highest honor which can be paid a student in Appleton High School, is the awarding to that student the Craftsmanship Shield. Each year a student of the National Honor Society, selected by the faculty members, is given this award. This individual must excel in character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

This year this high honor has been awarded to Betty Meyer. Betty has been an outstanding student since she entered the school. She represents in every way that for which the Shield stands,—exceptional character, high scholarship, inspiring leadership, and cheerful service. Betty has more activities than any other student in the school. She has taken part in girls' athletics and numerous other activities. She is a member of the Quill and Scroll, National Honor Society, Girl Reserves, Student Council, and has been an officer of most of these. She is also vice-president of her class. Besides these, she has been on the Talisman staff for three years and this year was the editor-in-chief. Betty also won the Fox River Valley Declamatory Contest this year. We haven't enough space to tell you all the things Betty has done in school, but this should be enough to give any student an inspiration for better work. This is the first time since 1918 that any girl has been awarded the Craftsmanship Shield. Margaret Abraham received the award at that time. The winner of the Shield last year was Norman Zanzig, editor-in-chief of the annual for that year.

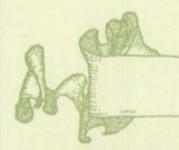

"Nor" BERG

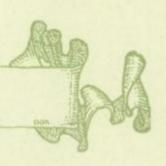

The American Legion Award

As the school year draws to a close, each outstanding athlete of the school, begins to look over his past athletic accomplishments. The one reason for this is, that each year, to the most outstanding athlete in school, is given the coveted American Legion Award. And because he has excelled in athletics and sportsmanship, the Award is given to "Nor" Berg.

"Nor" has been the mainstay of our football and basketball teams for almost three years. On the field and on the court he is cool but fighting. Playing as quarter-back on the football team, he was a real "general", always keeping the boys playing hard, and knowing just what plays to make and when to make them. He is, as one might say, football "wise". On the basketball court, "Nor" has been outstanding for his determined playing and practiced eye for the basket. It is to "Nor" that we owe much of our success in football and basketball. He was co-captain of the basketball team and captain of the football team. "Nor" also played baseball. But, on both the court and gridiron, he was an inspiration for the rest of his team-mates.

Last year, the award was given to "Bobby" Kunitz, whose record may still be a challenge to future Appleton High School athletes.

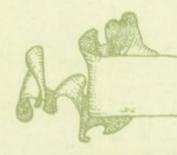

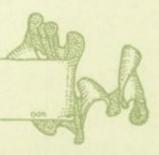

WICHMANN, MEYER, OOSTERHOUS, LOCKSMITH, ROEMER

National Honor Society

Appleton High School was granted a charter for a National Honor Society chapter in 1927. The emblems of the society are the keystone and torch, symbolic of the high standards which the society sets for its members, and the letters C, S, L, S, which stand for character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Each student enrolled in this society must excel in these four qualities.

Only five students out of a class of 235 seniors were chosen for the honor this year. These students were: Lila Locksmith, Betty Meyer, Lawrence Oosterhous, Arthur Roemer, and Russell Wichmann. Some of the ways in which these students have been outstanding in school life are as follows: Lila Locksmith—assistant editor of the Clarion, president of Tri-Square, secretary of class for three years, member of Talisman staff, and extempore contest; Betty Meyer—editor-in-chief of Talisman, Declamatory Contest winner, student council officer, member of Tri-Square, and flag raiser; Lawrence Oosterhous—president of Hi-Y, prominent in debate and oratory, and member of student council; Arthur Roemer—editor-in-chief of Clarion, president of Student Council, flag raiser, president of Hi-Y, cross country letter man. More activities for each of these students could be mentioned, but those listed constitute the most important.

MISS ANDERSON

MISS SAECKER

Quill and Scroll, the national honorary society for high school journalists, was organized at Iowa City, April 10, 1926, by a group of high school supervisors for the purpose of encouraging and rewarding individual achievement in journalism and allied fields of creative work. According to the constitution, members of Quill and Scroll must be chosen from students enrolled in high school who at the time of their election meet the following requirements: (1) They must be of at least junior standing. (2) They must be in the upper third of their class in general scholastic standing at the time of their election (the current year). (3) They must have done superior work in some phase of journalistic or creative endeavor. (4) They must be recommended by the supervisor or by the committee governing publications. (5) They must be approved by the national secretary-treasurer.

Appleton High School has attained a new record this year in initiating seventeen new members into this organization. This is the largest membership that the A. H. S. chapter has had since it was granted a charter in 1926, and it is also the first time that members of the Talisman business staff and the Clarion editorial and business staffs have been eligible for election.

The Student Council

An important medium for the expression of opinion in our high school is the student council, the self-governing body representative of all the students.

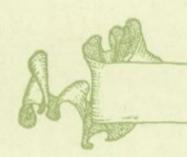

The council, under the system of membership adopted in the autumn of 1927, is composed of twenty-eight students. Each home room, with the exception of the four largest, which are entitled to two councilmen, chooses one representative.

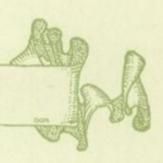

Following the example of the previous year, the council again sponsored the Assembly Lyceum Course, bringing before the student body a number of well-known persons.

As before, the organization conducted several all-school and alumni dances, edited the handbook, and took care of the lawns.

The student council carried one step further the work toward student discipline and school betterment. As the matter of traffic congestion in the corridors and on the stairways presented a problem for some time, the council attempted to enlist the cooperation of the students in a novel way. Therefore, it stated that if a general observation of the traffic rules against running in the halls, and of the request that the floor be kept free from paper was complied with, school would be dismissed twenty-five minutes earlier twice a week. The plan proved successful.

Much credit should be given to the student council for the effort exerted to the betterment of our school life, and to the success with which these efforts were met.

Thrift Banking

School banking is carried on in the activities bank which is supervised by Miss May Webster. It is controlled by an executive board chosen from the three classes. Each home room selects an executive banker who does the banking for the students every Tuesday during home room period.

This system has been very effective, and through it, thrift has become an established fact in Appleton High School. A one hundred per cent record was maintained throughout the year by room 300, a group of sophomores, of whom Mr. Clement Ketchum is sponsor. The following students are in this home room:

This year marks the fifteenth edition of the Clarion and the fourth successive year that it has been sponsored by the senior class. The class of '30 deserves a great deal of credit for its successful publication.

The staff was fortunate this year in that it possessed a large number of capable students on both the business and editorial staffs. The annual has won the All-American honor rating for the past two years and it hopes to continue with this record.

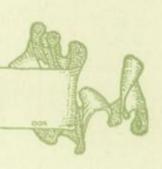

The theme of the year book for 1930 is "Appleton and the Paper Industry." The student subscription from all classes was exceptionally fine this year due to the newly organized activities' plan. The senior class subscribed 100%.

Miss Graef, business sponsor deserves special mention for the successful financing of the Clarion, as does also Miss Loan, who aided the editorial staff.

The annual has attempted to make the many phases of school life more realistic and vivid to each and every individual; to aid the students in recalling their many happy days in high school; and to give them hours of enjoyment after they have graduated; to act as a permanent record for all those who are deeply interested in Appleton High School.

The staff work was made more interesting by frequent parties and get togethers.

The Talisman

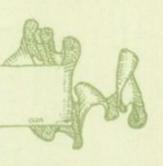

It was a Friday night. Before the door of room 308 stood a bewildered crowd. Inside the room, beyond the gaze of the chance passers-by, a frenzied group of would-be journalists were laboriously inscribing words, letters, and figures on every thing within reach of pencil or pen.

This worried looking crowd of students proved to be the Talisman staff, busily engaged in putting out the next week's issue of the weekly school newspaper.

The Talisman has just completed the fifth year of its existence. Begun in the fall of 1925, the publication has since been the official paper of Appleton High School. The purpose of the paper is threefold: first, to be the voice of the student body; second, to train students in the art of journalism; and third, to keep a complete and permanent record of all activities in the school.

The work of the editorial and business staffs was carried on this year by sixty or more students representing all three classes. The staffs have been under the guidance of Miss Borghild Anderson, editorial sponsor, and Miss Ruth Saecker, business sponsor. Clifford Burg and Lawrence Oosterhous were at the head of the business and advertising staffs, while the editorial work was headed by Betty Meyer, editor, and Ruth Trever, managing editor.

It is possible for a group of boys to exert a good influence over other fellow-students and classmates; that is, if they wish to do so. The Hi-Y club has carried out this principle in a truly admirable manner. At their weekly meetings such topics as "Crime, Religion, and Personality" were discussed. A joint meeting was also held with the Girl Reserves at which "Etiquette" was the topic for discussion.

Several outstanding projects which were undertaken and carried out successfully were: the sale of second-hand books, sponsorship of the East Green Bay football game and pep session, contributing $25 and raising $125 from the luncheon clubs for Dr. Sanford, donating $5 for band uniforms, and holding a successful Older Boys' Conference.

The club also held a sleigh-ride party and a dance at the Conway. Both were very successful. The club ended its activities by holding a picnic, and electing officers for the following year.

The Tri-Square has been successful for the greater part in its work for 1929-1930 through the keen foresight and capable direction of Miss Marjorie Stephenson and Miss Gertrude Thuss.

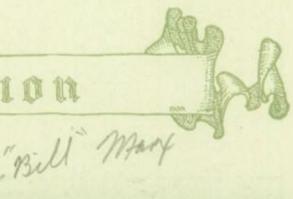

This year the Girls Reserves have begun a new sort of project, that of social service work. At Christmas time they spent approximately fifty dollars to help the poor and needy people of the city. Another way in which they tried to be of service was by sending some remembrance or other to two high school girls who were at the Riverview Sanatorium.

Many topics of interest such as "Scholarship and Cheating, New Year's resolutions, Noted Women, Women's Careers, and Etiquette" were discussed at their meetings. A pep session and program was given in the assembly to arouse enthusiasm for the East Green Bay basketball game.

A bridge and dancing party for alumnae and Neenah-Menasha Girl Reserves was given in March. Approximately one hundred people attended this party.

In their work and projects the girls hope that they have lived up to their code, "faced life squarely, and found and gave the best."

Due to the large number of boys who wished to enter the Sophomore Triangle club this year, it was decided to organize two clubs, thus giving more boys a chance to get into a club without over crowding it. The A. H. S. Crusaders was formed under the sponsorship of Mr. Harry Parton. This group was not organized until quite late in the year so not much work could be done. However, they did organize a basketball team, and held a successful banquet for the members.

The Sophomore Triangle, under the sponsorship of Elmer Root, was able to do more work, as they were organized earlier. They donated $5 to the band uniform fund, a dart-ball board to the Y. M. C. A., and also organized several athletic games and social functions.

The purpose of the clubs is "preparation for the Hi-Y through clean mind, body, and spirit."

During 1930 the membership of the G. A. A. under the direction of the physical director, Miss Edith Small, has increased from 78 members in 1920 to 100 members. The aim of the organization is: (1) to promote participation in intra-murals for girls, (2) to make the association a power for good, and for clean living among all the girls of the school, (3) to support all athletics by interest and cooperation.

Besides the extensive intra-mural program, the organization sponsored monthly matinee dances, a pep session in the assembly, sold at football and basket ball games, led hikes, held a sleigh ride, and gave picnics. At Christmas time the girls sold $44.43 worth of seals for the Appleton Woman's club.

The association purchased trophies to be presented to the winning intra-mural teams, jackets for the hockey and basketball squads, donated $10 to the band for new uniforms, donated $5 toward Christmas seal fund, and gave a banquet for the football squad.

The motto, "a sport for every girl, and a girl in every sport," was well realized, as the intra-mural program enlisted the total participation of about one thousand girls.

President - - - - WARREN BATLEY
Vice-President - - - LEO TILLY
Secretary-Treasurer - ROLAND WOLFGRAM

The Industrial Arts Club, founded in 1929, has progressed rapidly and is now one of the main clubs of the school. Only those who are taking a manual arts course are eligible for membership. Under the management of Mr. Cameron and Mr. Cooper, the club has done much work for the school, work which otherwise would have been left undone or left to an employee of the school.

The office and library signs are products of the work of the Industrial Arts Club. The club supplemented the old cardboard home-room and assembly signs with the new electric signs which are great improvements. The members of the club also do all the work that is connected with the movies or other form of entertainment that is put on in the assembly. The boys should be complimented on their fine work, for which they receive so little praise.

WESTPHAL, RADTKE

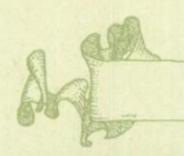

Typewriting Gold Medal Winners

It is the aim of every typing student to attain, at some time in his high school career, a gold medal. This award is given to students who meet the speed and error limit requirements in a fifteen minute test given by the typewriter companies.

Heretofore, the gold medal awarded by the Remington Typewriter Company to any student who wrote at least fifty-five words per minute, was the only one given. This year, however, with the installation of several Underwood and L. C. Smith typewriters, students were given a chance to win the medals offered by these companies also. These companies award gold medals to those who write at least sixty words per minute for fifteen minutes.

Two students from the 1930 typewriting classes won gold medals this year. Each received two awards—one from the Remington and one from the Underwood Typewriting Companies. Virginia Westphal with a speed of fifty-eight words per minute, and Lila Radtke with one of fifty-five per minute, received the Remington gold award; and both girls attained a sixty word per minute speed, thereby receiving the Underwood pin.

Dame Declamatory Contest

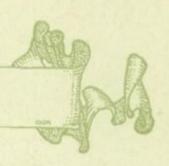

On Tuesday, December 5, the annual Dame Declamatory Contest, held in the high school auditorium, was attended by approximately 550 people, the largest crowd that has yet been known to frequent a performance of this kind. Since 1925 this contest has been sponsored through the courtesy of George Dame of the class of 1916 in order to encourage superior work in dramatic interpretation.

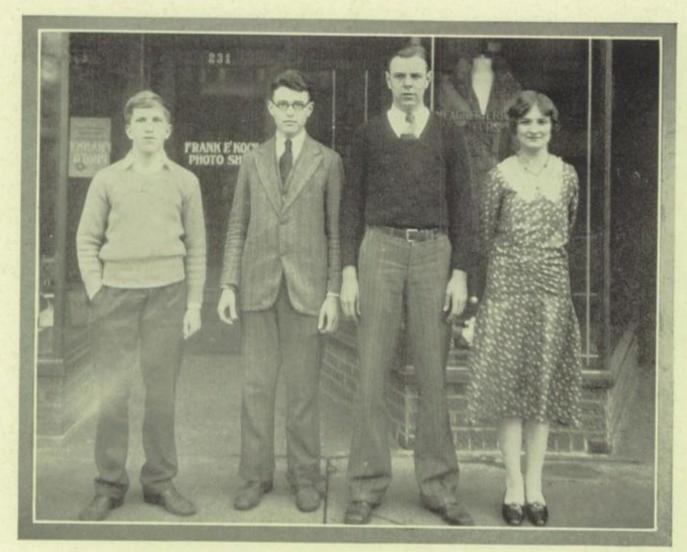

Betty Meyer, '30, won first place with her selection "The Tragedy of Gowns" by Edna Ferber. Representing Appleton High School in the Fox River Valley Contest at Manitowoc on December 11, she received a silver loving cup for first place. Monica Cooney, '30, who read "The Gay Old Dog" also by Edna Ferber was awarded second place in the local contest. Jean Shannon, '30, won third place with her reading "The Doll in the Pink Silk Dress" by Leonard Merrick.

Ruth Harris, '31, who gave "Is There a Manger Here?" by Edith Delano, and Veronica Robedeau, '32, who read "Daddy Doc" by Kathryn Kimball were the other contestants. Each of the girls showed excellent interpretive skill and originality, largely due to the praise-worthy coaching of Miss Ruth McKennan.

Previous to the contest, at which Mr. H. H. Helble acted as presiding officer, Mary Brooks, voice, Susanne Jennings, piano, and Eloise Smeltzer, violin, entertained the audience with several musical selections. Judges for the contest were Mr. Theodore Cloak, dramatic coach at Lawrence College, Mrs. B. J. McElin, graduate of the speech department of Northwestern University, and Miss Ruth Dieckhoff, graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

Extemporaneous Contest

A large number of students tried out for the Bolton-Roth Extempore Contest on the morning of April the eleventh, nineteen hundred and thirty; a fact which goes to prove that extempore is really becoming an activity of vital interest to the student body of Appleton High School. The contest this year is sponsored by the classes of '30 and '31 and the Girl Reserves, in memory of two outstanding students of the class of '28, Carlton Roth and Ted Bolton who were drowned in Lake Winnebago last October.

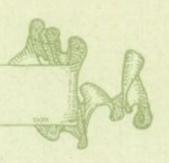

At the preliminary tryouts each contestant was allowed to speak seven minutes. The topics spoken on were of a general nature. Mr. Herbert Helble, Miss Ruth McKennan, and Miss Margaret Abraham acted as the judges in this preliminary contest. Miss McKennan is the coach of the extemporaneous team.

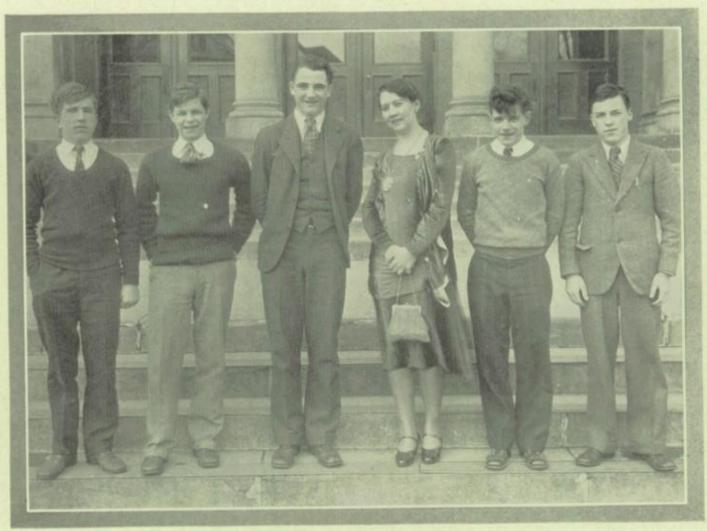

The students who were chosen for the finals were: Karl Ek, Lila Locksmith, Lawrence Oosterhous, Ethel Schenck, and Jacob Shilcrat.

The finals were held on May 1. Lawrence Oosterhous won first place, Ethel Schenck, second, and Karl Ek, third.

Appleton was the scene of the Fox River Valley Contest which was held May 8. Appleton received sixth place.

Oratory

To perpetuate the memory of one of their outstanding classmates, who was killed in the World War, the class of 1916 sponsors each year the William Heiss Oratorical Contest. William Heiss was primarily interested in debate and oratory.

Mr. Elmer Root, '16, presided this year at the contest which was held at the high school auditorium on Thursday evening, April 10, 1930 at eight o'clock. Miss Agnes Huberty coached the contestants.

Bob Mortimer received a silver loving cup for first place with his selection

"Ropes" by Sanford Clinton.

"Influence of the Press on World Peace" by Myron Philips given by Fred Marshall received second place.

Third place was won by Charles Widsteen with his oration "Martyrs of Progress", by Leland Ross.

Clifford Burg gave "The Blundering Giant" by Ruth Scherer, and Karl Ek gave

"Salvage" by Paul Sheats.

Judges for the contest were: Mrs. Bertha Barry, Mr. Theodore Cloak, and Mr.

George Dame, '16.

Previous to the contest and during the time the decisions were made, Mary Brooks, voice, Susanne Jennings, piano, and Eloise Smeltzer, violin, gave musical selections.

Debate

Approximately thirty tryouts attended the first debate meeting which was held on Tuesday, October 15. Miss Agnes Huberty, debate coach, finally selected this squad: Lawrence Oosterhous, Charles Widsteen, Karl Ek, Norman Clapp, Ethel Schenck, Bob Mortimer, William Zuehlke, Richard Balliet, Fred Marshall, Charles Herzog, Chester Dorschner, Vernon Beckman, Roger Lyons, Jacob Shilcrat, Estelle Scharman, Dorothy Cohen, and Harvey Kahler. The first eight mentioned received their debate letter.

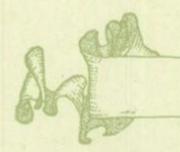

Eight public debates were given and three questions were debated, namely:

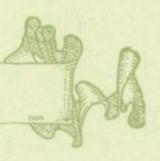

Resolved, that Interscholastic Athletics be abolished in Appleton High School and that a system of Intramural Athletics be substituted in its place.

Resolved, that Appleton High School have a summer session of its own.

Resolved, that the American Jury System be abolished.

Three of these debates were given in the assembly before the student body while other squads debated the same questions before the First Ward Parent Teachers' Association, the Roosevelt Parent Teachers' Association, Lawrence College, and twice before the students of Wilson Junior High School.

Life's Like That

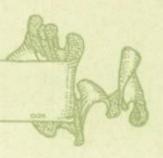

By Miss Ruth McKennan

The Senior Class Play this year merited more than usual attention, for it was not only produced by Miss McKennan, but also written by her.

The setting for this play is in Long Island at the summer home of Stephen Worthington, a part played by Russell Wichmann. His household consists of a daughter, Ginny, an irrepressible girl of sixteen, played by Janette Hughes; his son, Ted, a serious-minded boy of 22, taken by David Trittin; Beth, Mr. Worthington's secretary, in love with Ted; Beth is played by Monica Cooney. Then there is the butler or in other words, Lawrence Oosterhous; Cynthia, engaged to Stephen but destined to fall in love with Jack, was taken by Jean Shannon; her mother, Mrs. Winsborough, was played by Cecile Blick; Jack Crothers, alias Hartford, was played by Loyal Fraser; Patsy Paine, Ginny's roommate and her meek follower, was portrayed by Roberta Burns. Mary Crothers, a sister of Jack and an old sweetheart of Stephen Worthington's was played by Betty Meyer, while Bob Cunningham and Dick Chilton, swains of Ginny and Pat, were played by Bob Mortimer and Art Roemer.

The senior class indeed feels privileged to have had the honor of presenting a production written and coached by Miss Ruth McKennan. She devoted much of her time toward making this play a success, and the senior class owes her a hearty vote of thanks.

The Charm School

By ALICE DUER MILLER AND ROBERT MILTON

The annual Junior Class Play presented at Lawrence Memorial Chapel on February 28, fulfilled the highest expectations of a large audience. This three-act comedy contained an exceedingly interesting plot which was skillfully portrayed by the entire cast.

The attempts of Austin Bevans, assisted by David MacKenzie, George Boyd, and the Perkins twins to teach charm to the members of a girls' boarding school proved very entertaining. James Laird, Gordon Holterman, John Rossmeissl, and Charles Widsteen and Robert Carnes as the twins, respectively, played the above parts. Mary Brooks, as Muriel Doughty, who depicted the clinging vine type, gave several delightful solos. Everyone who saw the play will long remember the clever part played by Marion Pansky, as Sally Boyd. The inevitable love tangle took place between Austin Bevans and Elise Benedotti played by Jeanette Cameron. The rest of the "Charm School" consisted of Helen Jean Ingold as the "o, la, la girl;" Elizabeth Shannon as Lillian Strafford; Eloise Smeltzer as Ethel Spelvin; Violette Strelke as Madge; and Ruth Harris as Dotsie. Janet Murphy played the part of Miss Curtis, the pretty secretary of the school.

A humorous sub-plot was furnished by Charles Hueseman as the elderly guardian of Elise, and by Muriel Belling as Miss Hayes, the austere school teacher.

As usual, much of the success of the production was due to the expert coaching of Miss Ruth McKennan.

The Glee Clubs, both boys' and girls', though smaller this year than in former years, have done commendable work. Under the direction of Mr. Earl Miller, instructor, the Glee Clubs gave several concerts in the school assembly throughout the year, and also made appearances before the luncheon clubs of the city. "Joan of Arc" was also presented at the Lawrence chapel by the glee clubs in the spring of the year under the direction of Mr. Earl Miller and Dr. Earl Baker. The cantata was well attended by both students and outsiders and it was well received by the audience. A joint party which the club put on was also a huge success.

Band and Orchestra

The Appleton High School band has made a remarkable showing this year and ranks favorably with other organizations of its size in the state. For the last two years it has won honors in numerous tournaments throughout the state.

The group has appeared in the high school auditorium for a group of three programs and has also attended all the athletic games where its splendid cooperation contributed in making these activities more interesting and lively.

The band is directed by Mr. Ernest C. Moore who has worked very diligently to make it a success. This year he published a band instruction book called "Moore Band Course" which includes twenty-five chapters of instructions and pictorial demonstrations of the proper positions along with the correct care and handling of the instruments.

In the spring of the year a drive was held to obtain new uniforms for the band members. The merchants and individual citizens of the city responded splendidly by giving generous contributions. The band has been measured for the uniforms and will appear in them for programs in the coming years.

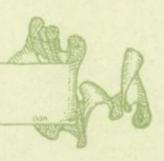

The orchestra of Appleton High School is composed of thirty-two pieces, including trombones, bassoons, oboes, French horns, drums, clarinets, cellos, violins, viols, violas, bass violas, and flutes. The students are becoming more interested in music of this type every year, and membership is increasing rapidly.

The orchestra has played in Oshkosh for the Fox River Valley Music Festival, for the Class Plays, at the Elks, Armory, and Roosevelt Junior High School. On October 18, the band and orchestra held a joint party which was well-attended by students from both organizations.

Mr. E. C. Moore also directs the orchestra.

ATHLETICS

Athletics In A. H. S.

SHIELDS

It matters not whether you win or lose the game, but it does matter how you played it. If you played a hard, intelligent, clean game, that, after all, is our ultimate aim in athletics, to gain those qualities which will fortify them for the battles that are bound to confront their lives when high school days are only memories. After a number of successful years in athletics, every school seems to have a slump; this seems to be Appleton's off year. Our teams have been good, and any team that claims a victory over us, will admit that it was a glorious victory because it took everything they had to win. But I find that we have a wonderful spirit in our student body; win or lose they have been behind the team to a man. This is the moral support that will soon put Appleton up among the topnotchers, and here is hoping it will be next year.

Coach of Athletics.

To develop a "sound mind in a sound body" should be the aim of those taking part in our high school athletics. This will help in all ways to make better citizens of our athletes—and is not that what we are preparing for?

At times, some of the participants in our athletics fail to live up to this part of our ideal, but after all they form the exception rather than the rule. When we eliminate those who do not keep the proper balance between work and play, we are only triying to live up to the ideal upon which we justify the time and money spent for athletics.

From the standpoint of winning games, this year has not been as successful as some in the past, but even so there are many schools that have fared worse than we. Furthermore the spirit of cooperation with fellow players, the respect for opponents, and the living up to the rules of the game, are things which will ever be of value to those who whole-heartedly took part in our athletics. A few losses do not take these away.

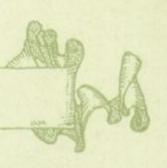

As long as the individuals who take part in our sports carry with them into later life something which will help make them better citizens, the time and money which we spend on our high school athletics will be justified.

Football Season for 1929

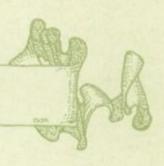

The 1929 football season was only fairly successful. The "Fox Terrors" finished in fourth place, having won four of seven games.

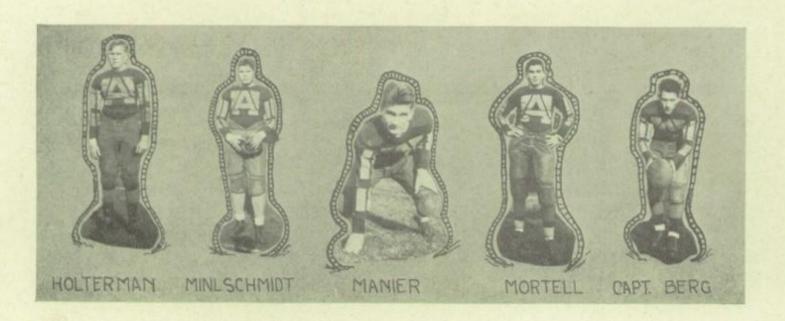

The "Red Devils" from Green Bay "romped" through the rest of the Fox River Valley conference for their third successive championship. In fact no team in the Valley even furnished competition for them. The other teams were evenly matched and fought bitterly for second and third places. On account of ties and losses by Marinette and Oshkosh, the status of the "Orange" depended on the last game with Oshkosh. When it seemed certain that the "Tackling Terrors" would finish in second place, Old Man Football took a hand and the "Sawdusters" defeated the "Orange" 6-0 by one of those very popular breaks of the game. Appleton was not expected to finish among the leaders because a great deal of material was lost by graduation. When such stars as Schaefer, Kunitz, and Kranhold are lost, plenty of hard work is required to mold another winning combination. Coach Shields and his assistant, Mr. Delforge, deserve most of the credit for this. Their hard work and perseverance helped the team more than anything else. After all, the games are won by those boys playing on the field and those who practice every night for months without having a chance in the games, and to them should go the most credit.

Although it takes eleven men to make a football team, there are always a few outstanding individuals. No one can deny that Captain Berg has left a wonderful football record behind him. Playing every minute of every game as though his life depended upon it, he was the main cog in the "Orange" machine. In the line we can never forget the "reliable heavyweights," Reetz and Minlschmidt. "Tubby" played his third year of football in 1929, and you can be sure that he will be sorely missed in 1930. Breitrick, playing his first year at end and his last year for Appleton, will also graduate. Berg and Reetz were placed on the All-Conference team, and it may

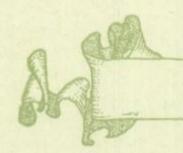

A summary of the season follows:

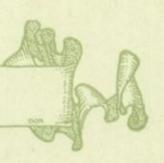

After three weeks of hard practice the "Orange-men" opened the season on September 28 by entertaining Sheboygan at Whiting Field. Every man had a chance to show his football ability and Coach Shields saw how each player showed up "under-fire." When the smoke had cleared away, the "Tackling Terrors" were on the long end of a 12-0 score. Though not playing brilliantly the team showed possibilities.

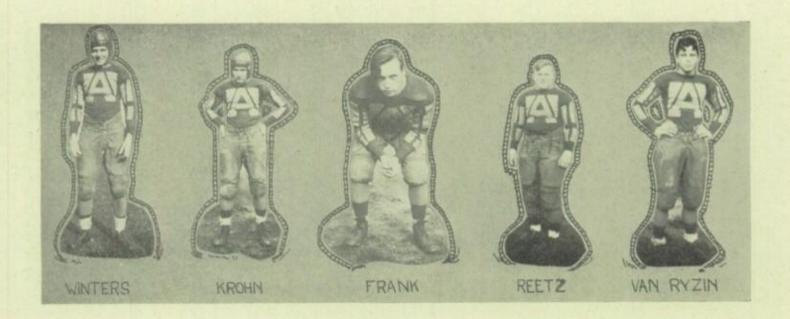

One more week of tutoring by Coach Shields, and the team traveled up north to play Marinette. The "Terrors" gave a wonderful exhibition of grit and fight as they battled against every piece of hard luck that could possibly come to one team in a football game. With all respect to the fighting "Northerners" it may be safely said that Appleton should have won. Every time the fighting "Terrors" got the ball to the one-inch line, something happened so that they would not cross the goal line. In the meantime Marinette had secured two touchdowns. Amid stones, sticks, and police cars the "Terrors" departed from the far North but Marinette will never forget their remarkable fight against some indefinable jinx.

On October 12, Fond du Lac came to Appleton and left again, losing 6-0. After playing a listless first-half against a "scrappy" team, the boys came back in the second half and by a long pass won the game.

The next game, October 19, was at Manitowoc. The first-half was bitterly fought by both teams, but the rest of the game was a runaway for Appleton. The "Ship-builders" were smothered 19-0.

East Green Bay had found no opposition to date, so the "Terrors" resolved to bring them down from their perch and to avenge the 4-0 defeat of "28". But resolutions availed nothing against the charging "Red Devils." Displaying the most perfect teamwork ever witnessed at Whiting Field, the Baymen trounced the "Terrors" 33-0.

On November 2 the "Tackling Terrors" played at West Green Bay and gained the victory 7-6.

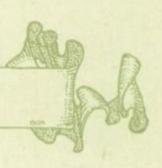

The game at Oshkosh on November 9 proved to be the most important of the season. "If" Appleton defeated Oshkosh, they would rest securely in second place and "if" they lost they would be down in the cellar, namely, fourth place. After being outplayed in the first half, the "Saw-dusters" returned in the third period and by a lucky break secured a touchdown. The touchdown came on a blocked punt that was recovered and carried over the goal line. Appleton fought hard and threw a barrage of passes but to no avail, and Oshteam. More students turned out for the games than ever before, and for this reason Appleton High School was able to realize a small profit from football. Mr. Witte, whose efficient management of the finances made this possible, is to be complimented for his work. If he continues in the same manner, athletics will soon be on a paying basis.

All the equipment was handled by John Lonsdorf, senior manager, Elmer Braeger, junior manager and Charles Sanders, sophomore manager. They did their work competently, and both the school and the players owe them thanks.

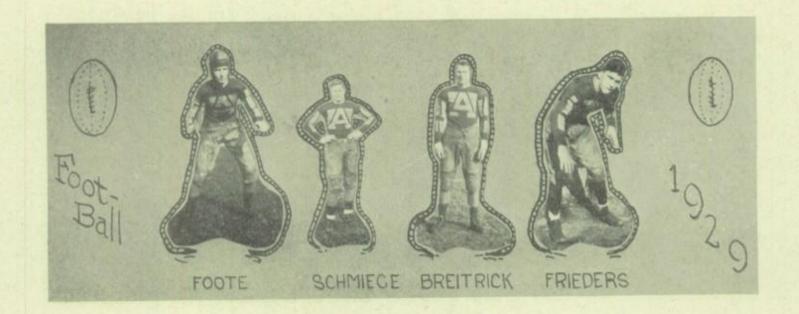

The "Terrors" of 1929 wish the "Terrors" of 1930 all the success in the world, and with the school behind them they should come out on top. Good luck!

Cross Country---1929

In 1928 Appleton placed second in the Fox River Valley Conference and consequently great things were expected of them in 1929, as most of the lettermen returned. We are glad to say that they lived up to our expectations, for they finished in third place. No doubt the "Terrors" would have held second place if hard luck had not pursued them throughout the season. Captain Warren Batley, one of the outstanding runners of the Valley, overworked himself in trying to get the team in shape and was not up to his usual high standard during the whole season. In addition to this, Arthur Roemer, another letterman of 1928, was unable to compete in 1929 on account of other outside activities.

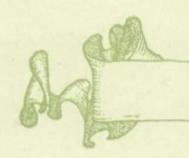

Appleton did not have a regular cross country coach, but Mr. Hugh Kennedy filled the position very creditably. Captain Warren Batley is entitled to special mention for his work. He was captain, coach, and trainer in one, and he filled all these offices very capably. Each of the veterans, DeYoung, Reeve, Babino, and Steinacker lived up to his reputation. All of them received the major letter for cross country. Only one letterman, John Babino, remains to form a nucleus for next year's squad.

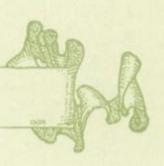

The "Terrors" opened the season with Shawano and defeated them 30-75 (the low score wins in cross country). Sheboygan forfeited and a few weeks later Appleton met East and West Green Bay in a triangular meet. The "Terrors" lost to East but defeated West. The score was 30-33-50.

The last meet of the year was the Conference run at Green Bay at which Manitowoc won first, East second, and Appleton third.

The cross country team of 1930 has a good example before them and it is hoped that they will imitate it.

Hockey 1930

Hockey was established as a major sport last year, and on account of the great amount of interest shown in the game, it bids fair to become one of the most important sports in Appleton High School.

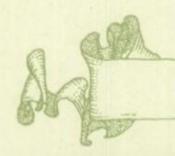

In 1929 the "Terrors" won four out of seven games, and although many stars were lost, the "puck-chasers" turned in the same record this year.

The starting line-up for the "Orangemen" usually found Captain Babino or Mortell at center, Tilly and Gmeiner at the wing positions, with Widsteen and Burhans defence, and Holterman goalie. It was an all-star aggregation and it was due to the combined efforts of this team that the "Terrors" experienced such a successful season.

The season opened January 20, with Oshkosh who was defeated 3-1. The "Orangemen," however, encountered bad luck in the next two games, losing a return game with Oshkosh 2-1, and also losing to the "jinx" East Green Bay 4-1. Nevertheless, the team redeemed itself in the next two games by defeating Neenah 5-2 and winning the "rubber" game from Oshkosh 4-2. A return game was played with the "Red Devils" who won 3-1. On February 15, the "Terrors" closed the season with a win from Neenah by a score of 2-0.

We must not forget to mention the indispensable manager, "Goldy" Ek, whose efficient handling of the equipment helped to make the season a financial success.

Basketball 1930

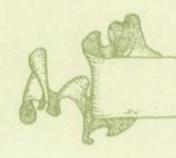

The basketball season for 1930 was the most unsuccessful one that Appleton High School has ever experienced. Never before has a basketball team from Appleton occupied the cellar position in the conference standings! But it seems that some team must always be in the last place, so this year it fell to the lot of the "Terrors" to be in that position.

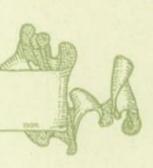

When four members of a second place team graduate, leaving only inexperienced material, very little can be expected of any team. Coach Shields handled his men the best way he knew how and experimented with many sophomores. In doing so he has helped to develop a team of veterans for 1931.

The "Fox Terrors" played twelve games, two of which were non-conference games with Neenah. They won two games and lost eight in the conference. They were also successful in winning one game from Neenah but lost the other. Although the "Orangemen" won three and lost nine games, little more could be expected of them.

In spite of the fact that the season was not very successful, many players performed very creditably for "old A. H. S." First of all we have the co-captains, Berg and Breitrick. Although "Nor" did not equal his record of last year, he was the mainstay of the team. Breitrick, also a fine athlete, and a square shooter was one of the main cogs in the "Orange" machine. As stars graduate, so are new stars developed. Emmet Mortell, a sophomore, already participating in football, basket.

ball, and hockey seems to be the most promising sophomore athlete ever discovered at Appleton. Good luck, "Em!" At this time also we should commend the work of John Lonsdorf, "Bill" Foote, "Herby" Zimdars, and "Speed" Kneip, all seniors and unusual basketball players. Many sophomores were tried out, and their trial indicated that good material is on the way.

The record of the "Fox Terrors" for 1930 follows:

The "Orangemen" opened the season up north with Marinette on December 21. They just couldn't seem to get going and fell before the "Northerners" 19-11.

On January 10 the "Red Devils" were invaded, and East Green Bay came out on the long end of an 18-9 score.

A week later the team journeyed to Oshkosh, and so did many of us, but we were of no help. Our team could not find the basket, and the game ended with the score 28-15 for Oshkosh.

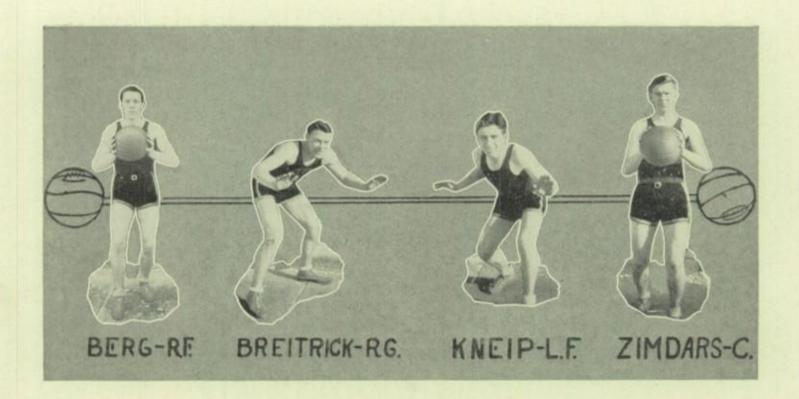

The next day the long-expected event came. We won a game from Neenah. The game went for extra periods, but Appleton came out victorious by a score of 17-16. The Appleton rooters were certainly hoarse.

Manitowoc was our next opponent. They were not much better off than we were in the conference standings so we expected a good game. We were not disappointed; after a breath-taking game which went for extra time, the scoreboard read 12-11 in Manitowoc's favor.

"Fondy" was leading the league on one end of the line, and Appleton on the other end, and when the team went to Fond du Lac for the game, we waited to find out how many points "Fondy" could score in four quarters. And then! Lo and behold! The "Orangemen" won, 13-9.

Encouraged by this win, many students went to Neenah with the team on February 8, but all to no avail; the "Terrors" fell before Jorgenson's squad, 22-17.

On February 14, Dame Fortune smiled on the "Blue and Orange" for the third time; in fact, she even grinned, for the "Terrors" defeated their "old jinx" East Green Bay. With the "Orange" machine functioning perfectly, the "Red Devils" went down in defeat 25-13. This game alone made the season semi-successful because only once in a life-time does Appleton defeat East Green Bay.

Another week passed, and the "Sawdusters" came for a return game. It was a walking-match—from one free throw to another. When the game ended, the "Fox Terrors" were on the short end of a 23-18 score.

Manitowoc defeated Appleton, 28-20.

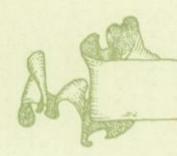

Then the conference leaders came to Appleton. After a desperate game "Fondy" won by a close score, 15-13. This game virtually gave Fond du Lac a narrow margin to the championship.

The "Fox Terrors" closed the season at home with Marinette on March 11. After a great deal of see-sawing back and forth, the "Northerners" finally won by a score of 20-19.

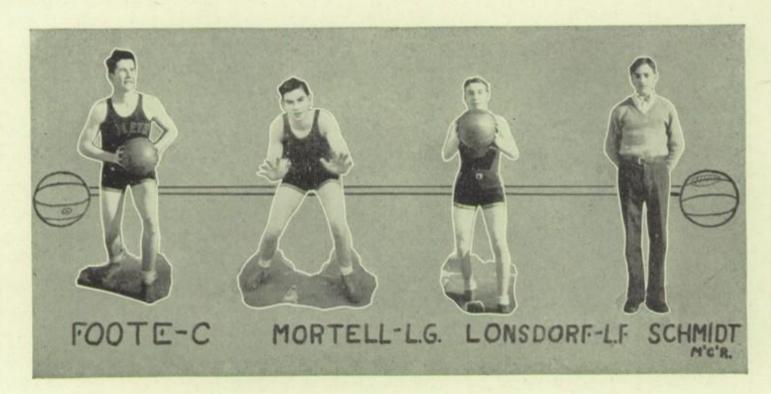

The home games were played in the new Alexander gymnasium, and although this gym is across the river, the students turned out better than ever before. Their support of a losing team shows real school spirit.

Very few students know that there is a manager for each sport. It is his duty to see that all the equipment is checked out and the players' wants cared for. "Chuck" Schmidt was senior manager and Elmer Braeger, junior manager. They were dependable and above all willing to work, two characteristics which are essential in a good manager.

Although the team lost many games, it always went down fighting and showed that pluck which is characteristic of the "Fox Terrors."

Track---1929

Three successive track championships, a record equal to that of East Green Bay in football!

Having lost the services of "Swede" Johnston, fifteen point man, the "Fox Terrors" were somewhat handicapped, but due to the splendid teamwork of Batley, Kunitz, Wolfgram, and Captain Neller, the "Terrors" came through again. With Neller reaching new heights in the pole-vault, Kunitz and Wolfgram in the sprints, and Batley winning the "same old half-mile," the "Orangemen" secured enough points to win the Fox River Valley Conference championship.

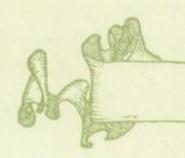

The "Terrors" opened the season with Manitowoc in a dual meet, which was won by Manitowoc. It was a mark against Appleton but nevertheless showed that the "Terrors" had genuine ability.

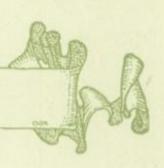

Next came the conference relays. The "Blue and Orange" placed second.

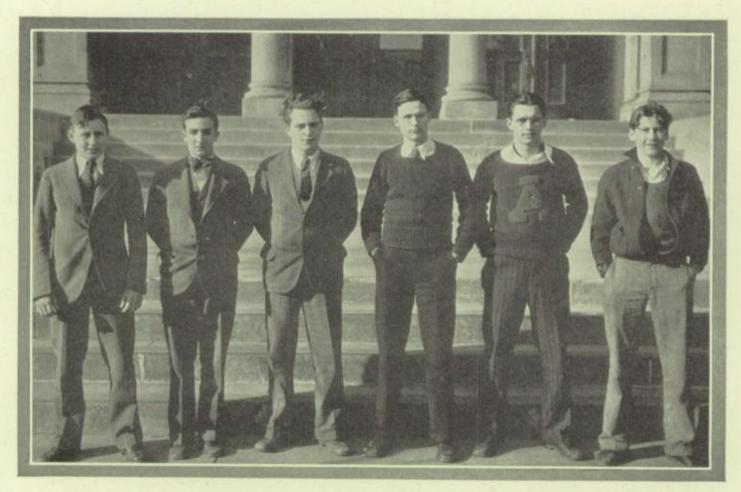

A week later the team placed third in the Lawrence meet, competing with such teams as Lincoln and West High of Milwaukee. In the state meet at Madison, Appleton placed seventh. Although Neller could not compete in the conference on account of an injury, the "Terrors" took first place with a total of 58 points. This meet ended the season leaving the "Orangemen" on top.

Appleton High School owes the managers, Burns and Davis, a vote of thanks, for their efficient handling of the equipment.

Boxing

Coach Shields included the "manly art of self-defense" in his program of "athletics for all" this year, and over fifty students showed their interest for boxing by signing up for the tournament. Coach Shields acted as the referee, and Mr. Delforge, Mr. Kennedy, and Mr. Cooper usually judged the bouts. They deserve special mention for their judging since none of their decisions were questioned by the audience. Boxing also drew a fine crowd of onlookers who showed genuine enthusiasm for the matches. Some of the battles were quite bloody, but all in all, the boys displayed true sportsmanship and sometimes real cleverness. A few of them did not know how to handle the gloves, but they soon learned that this was very necessary. The matches also gave them a chance to find out how little they knew about defending themselves. After a champion in any class had been determined, that "champ" had to defend his title against all comers in his weight class. This kept them from feeling too sure of their crowns. After the smoke cleared away, and the gloves were again packed in moth balls, the champions remained as follows: flyweight, Robert Carnes; featherweight, Meyer Gabriel; bantamweight, Norbert DeYoung; lightweight, Paul Wolfe; senior champion, John Reeve; junior champion, welterweight, Elmer Knuth; middleweight, Leo Tilly; light heavyweight, Al Breitrick; heavyweight, Orval Winters.

Girls' Free Throw Contest

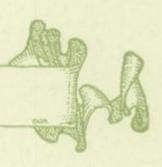

The girls' free throw team for 1930 did unusually well since two of our Appleton High School girls helped in making up a team of five girls, who represented the United States in an international tournament. These two contestants were Leone Strutz who dropped 34 out of a possible 50 shots, and Adeline Haag who put the ball through the hoop 32 times out of a possible 50 shots. The Y. M. C. A. of Nashville, Tennessee sponsored this international tournament.

In the sixteen year old group, Bluebell Ryan won first place as city champ. Bluebell also won first place last year. Caroline Boettcher placed third in the junior group of the tourney but Genevieve Kronschnabel was defeated in her attempt to place among the winners.

The team, representing the United States in the international tourney, of which two were high school girls and three college girls, consisted of the following: Verna Lauritzen, 44 out of 50; Erlene Irvine, 38 out of 50; Elsie Beck, 30 out of 50; Adeline Haag, 32 out of 50; and Leone Strutz, 34 out of 50.

The Appleton team also won the World Championship.

Girls' Basketball

Thirty girls competed in the interclass basketball tourney which resulted in the award of the trophy to the juniors, captained by Mabel Daelke. The games were hotly contested, but the juniors' fast passing team, was the favorite.

The results were: First place—Juniors—1000; Second place—Seniors—.500; Third place—Sophomores—.000.

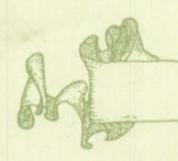

The intra-mural basketball honors were contested by 81 players, ending in a victory for Bluebell Ryan's squad. This is the second year that Ryan's team has won the intra-mural cup.

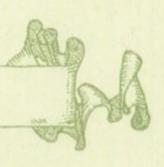

The results were: First place—Bluebell Ryan's team; Second place—Arlene Peterson's team; Third place—Effie Arp's team.

Bluebell was high point scorer in the intra-mural tourney making 56 points, Carolyn Boettcher was second with 48 points, and Lillian Breitrick third with 44 points.

The interclasss champs were Mable Daelke, Capt., Arlene Peterson, Caroline Boettcher, Louise Heckert, Hildegard Laux, Geraldine Van Ryzin, Bluebell Ryan, Evelyn Ingenthron, Wilhelmine Meyer, and Helen Kunitz.

The intra-mural champs were Bluebell Ryan, Capt., Geraldine VanRyzin, Hildegard Laux, Mildred Strutz, Ruth Lutz, Jane Dresely, Audrey Reider, Mabel Daelke, and Ruth Riesenweber.

Girls' Hockey Teams

The Second Girls' Intra-Mural Tournament this fall proved a great success. One hundred and twenty girls, comprising eight teams, gave lively competition in this event.

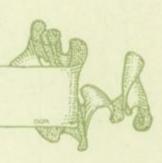

Much credit is due Adeline Haag, Girls' Athletic Association student manager, for her splendid work in the alignment of the hockey field, which is situated on the east side of school, and for the fine condition in which she kept the equipment.

The "Athletics" under the captainship of Hildegarde Laux secured first place. Other members of her team were A. Reider, A. Peterson, E. Alvord, W. Meyer, H. Kunitz, J. Ritger, C. Fountain, B. Pasch, G. Morse, H. Hartsworm, L. Tillman, M. Feavel, S. Reffke, and R. Lutz.

Second place was won by the "High School Specials," captained by Genevieve Kronschnabel. Her team was comprised of A. Mueller, H. Nabbefeld, B. Rohloff, M. Plutchak, K. Porter, E. Werner, S. Falk, F. Wirtz, P. Haave, L. Heckert, H. Ventur, P. Meyer, M. Schreiter, and M. Murphy.

The "Shamrocks" with Geraldine Van Ryzin as captain took third place. B. Ryan, M. Daelke, H. Dengel, M. Horton, M. Reineck, L. Franz, M. Strutz, J. Dresely, A. Sieg, A. Solie, E. Kamba, and D. Toll made up her team.

"Success"

MY PUPIL:

Could I but open wide your eyes, And help you see where beauty lies,— Could I some little chance word say, And make life clearer from that day;

Could I but search the depths of youth, And help you come to love the truth For its own sake,—and learn, perchance, That truth evolves through tolerance;

Could I but help you clearer thoughts to think, And teach you that ambition's weakest link Determines what the chain of life shall be,— And more than knowledge holds your destiny;

Could I but by my life inspire, Quest for Minerva's altar fire, Teach you ideas can't avail Where judgment, truth, and honor fail;

-CLEMENT D. KETCHUM.

Publications

This is the Talisman, the weekly newspaper, which has brought you news every week. It is edited under the sponsorship of Miss Anderson and Miss Saecker. "Tallies" are distributed each Tuesday during the home room period. It is published by four different staffs: editorial, business, circulating, and advertising.

The Talisman presents to you news that is still news and news that can be appreciated. The paper contains four pages of interesting events which are edited through the cooperation of the student body.

Don't forget, "The Talisman Tells!"

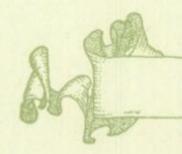

Here is the annual Clarion to which practically the whole student body has subscribed. It serves as a summary of the year's occurrences.

This year the theme of the Clarion centers around the paper industry in the Fox River Valley. Under the sponsorship of the senior class and with the wholehearted backing of the students and teachers, it has been made a success.

For several years the Clarion has received a firstrating among yearbooks. We hope that this edition will also be placed among the foremost.

The Student Council puts out this publication, edited by Betty Meyer and Gordon Holterman. Its purpose is to inform students of the life at Appleton High School. The sophomores especially should appreciate this book, for it guides them throughout their trying year at school. The student handbook has also proved beneficial to the upper classmen. The book is compiled under four main divisions: general administration and information, courses of study, school activities, and pupil guidance.

In order to cover the expense of editing the handbook, a sum of fifteen cents was taken out of the class dues.

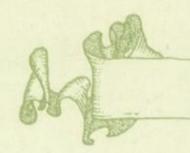

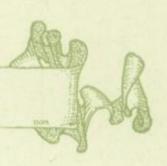

CARL ROEHL

School Flag Contest

As our country and our state have flags to represent them, it is no more than proper that "good, old A. H. S." should have a flag, too.

Remembering this, the Student Council sponsored a contest this year for a school flag. Over seventy-five designs were turned in to the judges, Miss Spence and Miss Heller. Three of these were picked, and the student body voted for the best design. After the votes were counted, it was found that Carl Roehl's flag had been chosen. Second and third places went to Lillian Guckenberg and Don Mueller, respectively. Five, three, and two dollars were given as prizes. The winning design is on the cover of the annual and a large flag, made by the sewing class, is run up every day with the American flag.

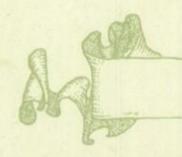

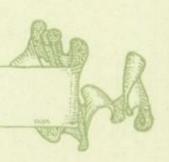

JANETTE AND "JIMMIE"

The Charm School

"Wasn't it just da-a-rling?" "Oh, Jimmie!" "Isn't he just marvelous?" These were some of the exclamations of the fairer sex as they came from Lawrence Memorial Chapel on Friday, February 28. What's it all about? Ah! they went to see the Junior Class Play, "The Charm School". "Jimmie" as Austin Bevins, inherited a girls' school. (Oh! Oh!) And then, he tried to run it himself by teaching the girls charm. Here's where Janette Cameron comes in, as Elise Benedotti. It was "love at first sight" when she saw James Laird, alias Austin. Then followed complications which raised the proverbial roof. Charles Hueseman, as Homer Johns, tried to get "Jimmie" to drop the school, as Miss Hays, played by Muriel Belling, was an old sweetheart of his, and he wanted her to have complete charge of the entire school; but "Jimmie" would have nothing of it. Austin's friends, David MacKenzie, George Boyd, Jim Perkins, and Tim Perkins, played by Gordon Holterman, John Rossmeissl, Charles Widsteen, and Robert Carnes, went with "Jimmie" to help him run the school. Oh! What a mess they made of things! Some of the pupils fell in love with the teachers, and vice versa. Miss Curtis, played by Janet Murphy, did her best to be severe, but it just wasn't in her nature, and she also "fell". The pupils who caused some of the trouble around the school were: Sally Boyd, Muriel Doughty, Ethel Spelvin, Alix Mercier, (oo-la-la), Lillian Strafford, Madge Kent, and little Dotsie. These parts were well played by Marion Pansky, Mary Brooks, Eloise Smeltzer, Helen Jean Ingold, Elizabeth Shannon, Violette Strelke, and Ruth Harris. After the "smoke had cleared away," "Jimmie" and Janette were in each others arms.

The music for the entire play was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Mr. E. C. Moore. Much of the credit for this successful play, is due Miss Ruth McKennan, who coached this wonderful production.

Senior Momentos

JEAN SHANNON—A ladder; so she can get off her high horse.
BESSIE BABCOCK—Cod liver oil; to gain those stylish curves.
"Tubby" Reetz—A box of Marmola; for that perfect thirty-six.

A FLAPPER'S PARODY

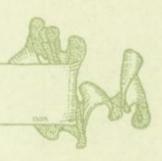

It's three o'clock in the morning, I've walked the whole night through, And daylight soon will be dawning, Just one more mile or two. That moonlight so entrancing Seemed to be made for us two, But I'd rather keep right on walking Feller, than ride with you.

"What's the difference between one yard and two yards?"
"Why, certainly, a fence."

Foote—"This is the plot of the story I'm writing. A midnight scene is laid. Two burglars creep stealthily toward the house. They climb a wall and force open a window. They enter the house. The clock strikes one—"Wichmann—"Which one?"

HEY! HEY!

You can always tell a Senior as she's ever sedately gowned, You can always tell a Junior by the way she jumps around, You can always tell the faculty by its impressive ways and such, You can always tell a Sophomore, but you can't tell him much, (Eh, what?)

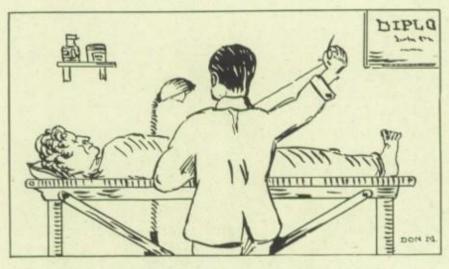

Say, Sophs! If you want to kill time, why not try working it to death?

In a church, at the front, her brother aged eight is being christened. Little Girl—"Behind his ears, too, Reverend Smythe!"

He—"Does Vera look her age?" She—"No, she overlooks it."

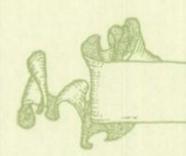

Boy—"Gimme some female spuds."
Grocer—"Are you crazy?"
Boy—"No. Me fadder sent me after two sex of potatoes.

Where do bad little girls go? Most everywhere.

"THAT'S ENOUGH OUT OF YOU."

What is the difference between gulf and golf? Gulf is a waste of water—golf is a waste of time.

"Horsie" D.—"Do you deny that we are descended from monkeys?"
"Bobby" B.—"If you want to claim that descent, I won't dispute you. Why should I argue with you about your family tree?"

Said the violin to the harp, "You're a lyre."

And there was a Scotchman who willed his body to save funeral expenses.

Glenn—"Why are you mailing all those empty envelopes?"

Normy—"I'm cutting classes in a correspondence school, dumbbell."

John Rossmeissl—"You ought to go into the movies." Marion Pansky—"Oh, you flatter my looks!" John Rossmeissl—"No, you're 100% talky."

THE A. H. S. MURDER MYSTERY

As I entered my study on that bleak December morning, I was conscious of an aura of gloom that pervaded the air instead of the usual tobacco smoke. It was easily explicable—I had spent my time during the previous two weeks reading a novel by Sax Rohmer.

My bookcase was filled with the scent of strychnine, arsenic, and bitter almond. "Aha!" said I, "Sax is getting ambitious!" But scarcely had I uttered these words when something fell with a soft plop on my unsuspecting head. It was the body of a noted sleuth, Coach Shields.

Blood was oozing from a dozen places in his body, and dirks, tomahawks, daggers, stilettoes, knives, forks, and rusty nails protruded from it. I felt his pulse. "Dead!" I cried. "What fiend has perpetrated this bloody deed? Well, I will soon find out, for here is where the sleuth gets sleuthed."

I attempted to call the police, but, as I might have suspected, the telephone wires were cut; so I returned to the den and attempted to analyze the case. The telephone wires were cut, and I ascertained that the doors were locked on the outside. Obviously the murderer was inclined to hush the matter up. The evidence seemed pre-eminently Italian, Indian, and American. Perhaps—and here I licked my lips—perhaps the villain might be Miss Borghilde Anderson. I jumped through the window and summoned the nearest patrol wagon. In no time time the entire police force of Appleton was at my disposal. When they reached my home with a hastily muttered "Anything-yousaymaybeusedagainstyou," the chief began to snoop around after data. First he examined the weapons. "Whozearetheze?" he asked.

"Oh," I said, "these are from my private arsenal; but thinks I the murderer must be Miss Anderson."

"Heswalleredpoison," said friend chief. "Whozewaszit."

"To tell the truth, that comes from my lab."
"Wheredidafirstfindthebody?" quoth he.

"Honestly, chief, when I was first aware of it, it was almost on top of my head. You can't prove anything by that."

"Oh, I can't. Listen, sonny, you're under suspicion for manslaughter."

"Only manslaughter? I thought for a second it was for murder." He explored the pockets, and finally pulled forth a letter, the signature of which was missing.

"It's a threatening letter," said friend chief. "When we find who wrote this, we'll find the murderer. Listen:

'Dear "Joe,"

You are in great danger. Meet me in the study of my home at 12 tonight.

Madame X'

I deduce from the date that Mr. Shields is rather late in keeping his appointments."

"As unofficial investigator and suspect," said I, "I ought to warn you that I always get my man."

"You're under arrest,' said the chief.

"But the evidence! The poison—the weapons."

"Yours."

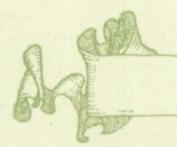

"The letter!"

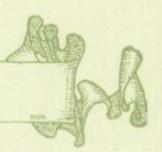

"Your writing."

"Ah," I said, "I see it all now. You say I'm under arrest?"

"Yes."

"Well, it's gratifying to know that I always get my man. Sing Sing, ho."

Honorary Awards

In recognition of outstanding participation in extra-curricular activities, our high school bestows certain awards upon the participants.

The highest individual honor obtainable is the winning of the Craftsmanship Shield by a senior. This reward is significant of the best all-around student—the one whose ability as a leader includes excellence in studies, a fine spirit of cooperation, and the maintenance of a fine attitude.

Another high honor is election into the National Honor Society. This society is chosen by the faculty to represent those students who are outstanding in scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Each year, too, the American Legion awards a medal to the most outstanding athlete.

For conspicuous service in journalism, a student is awarded membership in the Quill and Scroll, national honorary journalistic society.

The letter "A" in orange chenille is given to those who have participated successfully in football, basketball, track, hockey, cross-country, Talisman, Clarion, debate, oratory, declamation, extemporaneous speech, Girls' Athletic Association, and music. On the cross-bar of each "A" is a special symbol of the activity in which the letter was earned.

Wearing the school symbol signifies that the school has given the stamp of approval for work well-done in an activity; it means that the sponsor of the activity and the faculty committee on awards have recognized a student as being worthy of such an honor.

It is left to the wearer of the blue and orange "A" to realize that he represents his activity and his school. In him are reflected the high school standards of our Alma Mater in every branch of school life; upon him rests the responsibility of maintaining such standards.

Appleton High School Traditions

In the word "traditions" is embodied all that a student holds dear in his high school life—the things that he will remember as others have remembered their high school days. When the day of graduation approaches, and we realize with regret—more than regret—that the time of parting has come, we feel (more deeply than ever) what these traditions mean to us.

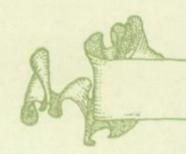

At our entrance as sophomores, we saw that the past with its traditions stood behind our school; as juniors, we saw that fact emphasized, as seniors, we furthered the worth-while and purposeful traditions of that, the oldest class.

As sophomores, it is traditional that the class present the school with a flag as a class gift. The seniors carry the tradition further by electing two representative classmen as "keepers of the flag" to care for this symbol of patriotism. The junior and senior class plays and the musical performances which represent each class are worthy traditions, too. The speech events, namely, the Dame Declamatory contest for girls, the Heiss Oratorical Contest for boys, and the extemporaneous speech contest for both boys and girls are anticipated. The sponsoring and publication of the annual, the Clarion, sponsorship of the annual senior vaudeville, the senior banquet and Class Day are all senior traditions. On Class Day, in accordance with tradition, the seniors depict the history of the class and pass on to the junior class, the spade and key, emblematic of the passing of that class into leadership in the school. Journalistic and athletic awards are presented.

These are the things that make our school so dear to us, these things that live on as memories through the years—our traditions.

Clarion Sponsors

Instead of the usual section of advertisements, the Clarion has substituted a list of sponsors consisting of business and professional men of Appleton. Although this policy was adopted only a few years ago, the response has been most generous and this years business staff has been unusually successful in obtaining sponsorships.

Again we ask the readers of the Clarion to show their appreciation of this good will by patronizing and supporting the firms and individuals listed below.
